Introduction

We are about to leave the halls of Drury. As time passes, the memory of these happy years will fade. If in the days to come this book, with all its faults, shall help to recall the faces and experiences of our school life, its purpose will have been accomplished.

Dedication

To our fathers and mothers who have often been tempted to despair because of our apparent success in resisting the entrance of useful knowledge: the Senior Class of 1921 with great respect dedicate this book.

FACULTY

MR. HERBERT HUME GADSBY, A.B., Ph.D., graduated from the University of Cornell in 1886. He entered Drury as its Principal, and head of the Latin Department. He is a member of the Phi Beta Kappa society.

MR. MORTIMER W. THOMAS, A.B., Vice-principal. He is a graduate of Williams. He came to Drury in 1903 as head of the History Department.

MR. BARNABY M. HOGAN, A.B., who heads the French Department, graduated from Williams in 1906. He entered Drury in 1912.

MISS MILDRED MACDONALD, A.B., came to Drury in 1912 as head of the Mathematics Department. She graduated from Drury in 1906, and from Smith in 1910.

MR. JOHN F. MCGRORY, A.B., M.A., graduated from Holy Cross in 1911. He came to Drury in 1912 as head of the Science Department. He enlisted in 1918, and returned to Drury in 1919.

MISS ELLA B. SPENCER, B.L., graduated from Smith in 1899, and came to Drury in 1901 as teacher of English and German.

MRS. HELEN L. GALLUP, B.L., is a teacher of English and came to Drury in 1910. She graduated from Smith in 1894, and afterwards took a course in the Harvard Summer School.

MISS BESSIE M. MILLER, A.B., graduated from Boston University in 1903 and then attended the Bridgewater Normal School for one year. She entered Drury in 1911 as instructor of Latin.

MISS EDITH HALL, A.B., is a graduate of Mt. Holyoke 1903 and came to Drury in 1918 as a teacher of French.

MISS GRACE A. GRIFFIN, Worcester Business Institute 1911, North Adams Normal 1915, Bay Path Institute 1917. She came to Drury in 1918 as instructor of Commercial Subjects.

MR. HARRY E. PRATT is a Drury graduate. Immediately upon graduating from the Boston School of Art in 1905, he came to Drury as the head of the Department of Art.

MISS ELIZABETH O'HERN. She graduated from North Adams Normal School in 1912, and after teaching there for several years she came to Drury as teacher of Domestic Science.

MISS ELLA ORR, teacher of drawing is a graduate of Westfield Normal in the class of 1895.

MR. THOMAS F. CUMMINGS, head of Manual Training Department, has taken courses in New York City at Columbia University Summer School.

MR. JAMES M. CHAMBERS studied at the Boston Conservatory of Music and is now the head of the Singing and teacher of Musical Appreciation.

MISS ELIZABETH O'SHEA graduated from the North Adams Normal School 1912 and the Posse Normal School of Gymnastics 1916 and is now instructor of girls gymnasium work.

MR. HAROLD A. COSTELLO, A.B., M.A., (Columbia 1918), a graduate of the College of the City of New York in 1914, after teaching four years in New York came to Drury in 1918 as teacher of English and head of that Department.

MISS ANNE COLLINS, B.L., teacher of History, graduated from Drury in 1902 and from Trinity College of Washington, D. C., in the class of 1906. She came back to Drury in 1914.

MR. ALEPH E. CLARENCE OLIVER, A.B., graduated from Harvard in 1913 and came here in 1918. He holds the position as head of the Science Department.

MR. FRANK E. MCCOY, teacher of shorthand and bookkeeping is a graduate of the Lynn English High School and the Salem Normal School. Before coming here in 1915 he spent several years of practical work in business houses around Boston. During the war he spent thirteen months as a teacher in Reconstruction Hospitals for wounded and disabled soldiers and returned to Drury in 1919.

MISS MARIA B. GOODWIN, A.B., is a graduate of Smith College 1895. She is an instructor in Latin and Greek.

MISS JESSICA SHERMAN, A.B., graduated from Smith College in 1908. She is a teacher of English.

MISS MARION M. CUSHING graduated from the Girls Latin High of Boston in 1897 and came here in 1900. She is a teacher of Commercial subjects.

MISS DORA A. RADLO, a Drury graduate in the class of 1883, specialized in the Sciences and in 1903 came back to Drury as Science teacher.

MR. WILLIAM SULLIVAN attended Seton Hall and later held several positions as physical director before coming to Drury in 1920 in that capacity.

MR. MARK MURRY graduated from Drury in 1914. He came in 1921 as assistant to Mr. Cummings in the Manual Training Department.

*"If she will do 't she will; and there's an end on 't
But, if she won't, she won't, you may depend on 't."*

"And the first shall be last and the last shall be first." Here is "Gert". She is a member of the business department and has a "fond devotion" for her studies—after graduation. Gert always seems to be in some difficulty especially in Arithmetic. If she is called on to give the solution to a problem she sulks and fidgets and finally happens upon the right answer to the relief of the exasperated pedagogue. Gert loves dances, parties, etc., and here's hoping that her rosy path of life will be sprinkled with many of them.

EDWIN BRAINARD "D"

"Nerer a lender, always a borrower be."

Football 4

Academe Association 4

This is "Ed" the big boy with the large feet and "très grande" appetite. He has also a great fondness for tripping the "light fantastic toe" and for coming to most of our dances.

As a football player Ed is in his best form; especially when the last few feet for a touchdown were needed, thru his side it went. Ed has only been with this class one year, but he has made many good friends and won for himself the regard of his classmates.

KATHERINE BRAINARD

*"Fashioned so slenderly
So young and so fair!"*

Katcha Koo 4

Kit is the sweet girl who supplies the hungry students at the lunch counter. She looks very demure and shy but wait until you know her. Kit came to us in '18, and was very soon one of us. Katherine is one of our social butterflies being present at all the Proms where one spectacted youth monopolizes most of the dances. Kit plans to attend Normal next year, but we think she should take up the study of man-ology instead.

STAFFORD CARSON

"Ripening in perfect innocence."

Every morning the 7:45 car brings down from distant Briggsville a rosy cheeked boy with a load of books. It is "Staf". Stafford is one of those quiet fellows who never causes much disturbance unless he is with his boon companion. Of recent months Staf has been coming to our dances and behaves very well for a bashful boy. A good student, a loyal worker, and a general good fellow. We know that Staf will succeed.

DANIEL HUNT CLARE, JR. "D"

Saint at home. Devil abroad.

Senior Class Editor Academe 4
Baseball Manager 4
Class Book Editor -in-Chief 4
Class President 2

Basketball 4
Class Play 4
Academe Association 2, 3, 4
Secretary of D. A. A. 4

Here is Dan Cupid, one of Drury's most popular boys. When Dan joined us as a Sophomore he was somewhat smaller, rosy cheeked and shy. During this same year there arose a great crisis in Dan's love affairs, which nearly upset him for life. Dan has learned to be quite an orator both in class, and out, too. Dan is a good athlete, but was unable to show us all his worth in this line, on account of a handicap. As leading man, in the Class Play, Dan excelled as a love maker. Next year Dan expects to go to Colgate.

MARY COOK

"She was made for greater things, she can fill large places."

This is Mary Cook the meek girl of our class. But you just ought to see her when she gets mad. All the teachers run and hide. Mary is very popular with boys and girls alike because she is always willing to help and to do anything to make her school better. Once in a while we get a glimpse of that stubborn streak that Mary has, as, for instance, in English. Mary is quite a talker, especially in English orals, where her usual small voice sinks so low that it almost disappears. But one thing we are sure of and that is that wherever you go, Mary, you will be a credit to your school and class.

ROBERT COSTINE "D"

"I never felt the kiss of love, nor maiden's hand in mine."

Basketball Manager 4 Athletic Editor Academe

Class Plays 4

Katcha Koo 4

That cute boy above is known as "Arch." No one knows how he came to be called that, but nevertheless he is. "Arch" is our chief humorist, ladies' man, and story teller. Whenever a group of boys congregate in one corner of the room and burst forth into peals of laughter, you can be sure that "Arch" is there and is responsible for the laughter. Girls too have a strong attraction for "Bob" and wherever there are girls, there's Bob. "Arch" played football this year and altho he is light he has the fighting blood, and we sure can say,

"Oh he's little, but he's wise,

He's a terror for his size.

Which he does not advertise,

Do you Bob?"

As Bishop in the play Arch made a decided hit with his quaint costume and his clever acting. He seems cut out for a Bishop. He is so innocent looking."

ANNE CURTIS

"She has wit, fun, and fire."

Art Editor of Class Book

Class Play 4

Pro Merito 4

This is Anne, the class's best artist, member of the Pro Merito, and finally, an all around good sport. Did you see those pretty dolls at the Class Play? Well, Anne made the prettiest of the pretty.

Anne read so much about Drury and the class of '21 that she came way from the great big city of Chicago. Now, aren't we honored by having Miss Curtis as one of our members?

Anne was the "property man" in the Senior play and she was so efficient in attending her duties, she gained a place in the great picture. Oh! how some of we girls envy you, Anne.

Next year Anne intends to enter the Chicago School of Fine Arts. There is no use wishing you success Anne, because we know you will end at the top of the ladder—Success.

ELVIRA DARLING

"A loyal, just, and upright maiden"

"Vee" is one of the fortunate "happy-go-lucky" sort who never worry but seem to get there just the same. School, with Elvira, is never such a serious matter but what she can afford to take a day off now and then. And you simply couldn't make her hurry! Her hobbies are perfumes and dances. Elvira has studied business methods during her high school career. She expects to go to Burdett to round out her training and then become some millionaire's secretary.

CHRISTINA DALTON

"Woman came after man and she's been after him ever since."

Kateha Koo 4

Chris. has always taken a great interest in dancing. If you want to know the latest steps, toddle, scandal walk, etc., ask Chris to teach you. She is also noted for her many conquests, but that is not strange for after one look into her black eyes you are smitten. Chris never does today what she can possibly put off until tomorrow. She has changed the old proverb about. Next year Chris will enter a prep school.

MARCEL EUVRARD

"He could swear violently and with great variety."

Football 4 Pro Merito

Basketball 3, 4

Marcel's whole history could be learned by one walk down our halls if this should come to pass. If, as you chanced to pass a vacant room, while wandering down our marble halls, you heard the sound of an uproar, and smelled burning sulphur, and saw the room filled with a yellow haze, you could guess with certainty that "Loony" was in that room. For Marcel has a large, yes, a very large vocabulary. In fact he holds the school record of 1,000 words without a stop. And if out from the above mentioned room a human body should suddenly fly and fall senseless at your feet, "Looney" was the cause. For Marcel is hard. In fact he is the school's hard guy. And yet again, if through the door of that selfsame room there should stroll a handsome young man with a maiden leaning on his arm, truly that too would be "Looney". For Marcel is a lady's man. In fact he is the school's lady killer.

ISADORE GABRINER

"A youth that means to be of note."

Izzy is one of those quiet fellows who never makes a fuss or call attention to themselves. He is a member of the business department and is a good student. At all our games Izzy does his bit to put his school on top. In the class games, both baseball and basketball, Izzy did his share, and we feel sure that he will make his way in life in as good a manner as he did here.

HELEN GEDDES

*"And still the wonder grew,
How one small head could carry all she knew."*

Helen is just like a blotter, she absorbs everything and keeps it. She also radiates authority, self-confidence and an "I lead, others follow," air. Helen is one of the business women of the class, and has always maintained a good standing in her studies. She likes teaching and hopes to be a "school marm." Though doubtless she would make a very awe inspiring teacher, personally, we think she would make a good confidential secretary to some business man because she is so confidential.

FRANCIS GRENIER

"Greater men than I may have lived, but I doubt it."

Have you ever noticed the little big boy with the hair of a Brilliantine Ad? That is our friend Francis. He has had quite a career at Drury, and, as he couldn't possibly overpower his desire to become a member of our class, after he had finished his sophomore year, he repeated this same year in our inspiring company. He has been with us ever since, and has been one of Mr. Costello's trials. Francis isn't such a big boy, but has the air of Napoleon, if not more so. Francis was one of our cast in the Senior Play and having such a characteristic part coupled with his very natural acting was a very efficient actor. We suggest that he go on the stage and specialize in such roles as Clarence Van Dusen. We are not positive what Gren will do next year but we wish him success.

JOHN E. HIGLEY

*"The time I've lost in wooing,
In hunting and pursuing
The light that lies in a woman's eyes,
Has been my heart's undoing."*

Here we have him, Cupid's most dangerous rival.

Our model boy and heart-breaker is and has been a very ardent supporter of Katherine, his-er-friend. But to use a slang expression Cupid has "nothing on John." No one could overlook friend John as he saunters down the hall in deep conversation with his partner, nor could he be missed at any of our dances, "jazzing around." Our good-looking classmate is an enthusiastic automobilist, it being possible to see him burning the "midnight oil" on any of our good roads with very charming company. John was also a very fine "chop-stick" artist, whose music (or rather noise) has often set more than one person's feet tapping and spine tingling. We suppose that John will venture to some institution of higher learning and hope that he will be the beaming success of his high school days. Gook luck to you, old pal.

OREAN HOOVER

"Persuasion lips her tongue whene'er she talks."
Girls Basket Ball '21, Numerals 3
Academe Association 3, 4 Class Song 4

Who doesn't know Orean? During her four years at Drury, Orean has been one of the most loyal supporters of all the teams. She has composed several fine songs which helped our teams to win their victories. As a debater, Orean is a star. And who has not at some time or other asked her advice on some debate or argument. Next year Orean will probably attend Normal.

FRANCIS HURLBUT

*"I am a stranger here. Heaven is my home."
Class Secretary 1, 2*

Hey, you big stiff, watch where you're stepping," roars out this deep, manly voice. The startled "stepper" jumps back and looks hastily around for the cause of the commotion. However as the supposedly huge monster is not around, who uttered these words, he looks down and there—is Francis or "Wink" as he is affectionately termed. About knee high to a toad is "Wink" of the big voice, but his heart is as big as his mouth. Francis has journeyed down from the Five Roads every year during his course, rain or shine, often in company with our long friend, Euvrard. They certainly represent the "long and the short" of the class. "Wink" is the image of his brother Chester who graduated a few years ago, only on a smaller scale. The class's wishes go with you, old man.

OLIVE ILES

*"Nature designed us to be of good cheer."
Katcha Koo 4*

Mr. Thomas: "Which is the largest city in America?"

Olive Iles: "Blackinton, sir."

Olive is that good natured girl who possesses the smile that won't wash off. She is especially noted because of her good natured disposition. If any girl has a tangle on her mind she goes to Olive and lets her straighten things out. Olive has some vocal ability. Have you not seen her as a head chorus girl in the "Minstrel" and "Katcha Koo?" Mr. Chambers could not get along if it were not for Olive. Yes, the world wouldn't go around if it wasn't for our dear friend.

Olive is very fond of her teachers and they are very fond of her. She is so fond of her teachers that she is going to follow up their profession. Next year she will attend Normal.

RUTH ISBELL

*If the heart of a man is depress'd with cares
The mist is dispell'd when a woman appears."*

It would be hard to find a more all around sport than Ruth. She is of such a good nature that she could be called a universal favorite with us. As Mrs. Gladden in Katcha Koo Ruth played her part to perfection. Ever since Ruth came to Drury she has been attending all the social events of the school. On account of a severe attack of sickness, Ruth left us about three months before graduation, but every one of her classmates wishes her the best of luck. She will enter the New England Conservatory of Music.

MEYER JAFFE

*"Full well they laughed with counterfeited glee,
At all his jokes, for many a joke had he."*

Here is the class joker. He can't complain for he surely does come out of a good pack. Meyer is the class wit. His favorite pastime is aiming his wit in third period English. "Mike" also has a mania for speeding, and many times has the Pittsfield road been the witness to a thrilling race between "Mike" and anyone else who wishes to dispute his speed. Meyer is very popular with his classmates, especially boys, on account of his ready wit and his kindness for those in financial embarrassment.

MARJORIE KENNEDY

"A girl is young and carefree as long as she continues to giggle."

Katcha Koo 4

Class Play 4

Who does not know "Smudge?" Is she popular? "I'll say she is." Her popularity doesn't stop at Drury or at North Adams either. No indeed, it goes way over to Williamstown. We don't know whether it stops there or not. We haven't been down to Amherst lately. Can she dance? Ask any male person who has ever danced with her. Can she act? She can. Is she a good sport? She is. That's Marjorie, a good sport, a fine dancer, a good actress, and a young lady well liked by everyone.

LOUISE LAMAR "D. G. T."

"A merry heart maketh a cheerful countenance."

Basketball (Captain) 4, 3, 4 Class Play 4

Academe 3, 4

Katcha Koo 4

"Wcesc" is one of our commercial members as well as one of our social butterflies. She has dramatic talent, too, as we observed at the Senior Play. If Louise had to answer that question on college entrance examinations: "Where do we get our dates?" she would probably say "Williamstown." She likes the faculty, especially the male members. She staunchly upholds the policy that "all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy." We lost Louise shortly after mid-years when she accepted a position in the Hcosac Savings Bank. In a few years we expect to hear that she is running one of the new women's banks.

SADYE LENHOFF

"I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith."

Sadye is one of the quiet, unassuming girls in our class. She is so quiet that many of us failed to realize she was here, but nevertheless she is here with "bells." Sadye is a very good student as far as literature goes. Her favorite books are, "Motion Pictures", "Shadowland," and "How to become an actress." Sadye gained great fame as the "Military" girl in her club play. Next year Sadye thinks she will work for her father in his dry goods store.

JULIUS LEVITTE

"Oh he's little but he's wise."

When anyone wants to learn anything of the latest developments in basketball ask Julius. He says little, but when he does, he gives real food for thought. "Peanut" plans to take up a business career in the near future.

MARGARET LOWRIE

"Thou clearly knowest when to speak and when to keep silent."

"Quiet but of much ability."

Margaret is one of the rather, notice I said rather, quiet girls in our class. During school hours she spends her time thinking about school work (which, by the way, is a good plan) but when school is dismissed, she's ready for a good time. She is very calm and doesn't get excited and forget what she intended saying,—when Mr. Costello calls upon her to stand before the class and display her knowledge. She is very agreeable and has won many friends. Margaret just adores dancing and her presence may be noted almost daily in the social room. It's welcome too, because she is among the very few who can lead well. Chemistry is one of her favorite (?) subjects. She is thinking of going to Normal next year. She surely should make a wonderful teacher with that calm disposition but in whatever she undertakes we wish her the best of success.

FLORENCE MACK

"To a young heart everything is fun."

'Tis strange how she haunted the office. Was it in quest of knowledge?

Florence is among the number of young ladies who decided recently that barbers must get weary of looking at men all day so did her bit to relieve the monotony. We like it very much Flo. I met her strolling in third period the other day and asked her what the trouble was. She said that she didn't feel well. I asked where she felt the worst and she replied, "In school." Somehow or other school annoys her. And then it's so much easier to come in third period. She just adores "Gym." To prove her love for it she went four times this year. She is very witty and has a cheery smile for everyone. She vies only with Mr. Costello in sarcasm. She also enjoys the pictures on Friday but wonders why they don't show Wallie Reid or Dick Barthelmess once in a while. Florence intends to brighten up Normal next year, and then she wants to be a nurse. We wish you good luck.

DOROTHY MAHONEY

Vice-President 3, 4 Academe Association

Do you not know I am a woman?

When I think, I must speak.

Here is "Do." Twice honored as Vice-President of our class she well deserves the popularity she receives. She is popular with everybody, boys, girls, and faculty. She is always ready with a cheery smile when anything needs to be done. In work or play she does her part and does it without any noise or fuss. A loyal supporter of her school's teams she cheers herself and gets others to cheer. Filled with an abundance of school spirit she works hard for her school and her class, and does her best to put Drury on top. Wherever you go "Do" our best wishes go with you and may they spell for you—success.

GERTRUDE E. MAHONEY

"The glass of fashion, the mold of form, the observed of all observers."

Speaking of girls, we have G. E. M. and a gem indeed is our Gert,—pretty cute and stylish. We do hope that the faultless wave shows in the picture. If you want to know what's "up to the minute" in styles, ask Gert. And those eyes, how they can talk! Have you ever seen that dreamy look creep into those pretty blue eyes about Thursday? Well, don't wonder why for that's the day Gert rushes home to find "Bill's"—sh-h. Did you ever hear the end of Gert's Orals? No, nor we either. What does she carry in that bag? Why, money, a hanky, "maybe", a pencil and a—?? Gertrude is going to Simmons to learn to be some lucky man's private secretary.

HARRY MARSHALL "D"

"He sighed to many, but he loved but one."

Editor-in-Chief Academe 4

Class Play 4

Football Manager 4

Pro Merito 4

"All the world loves a lover" and so everybody likes Harry. Oh yes, like several others in the class Harry is a "gone case." But altho he is under the handicap of being in love Harry is a good fellow. He is a member of the Pro Merito, a fine musician and a good actor. As Dick Donnelly, Harry made a hit. In Doctor's Cicero class, Harry stars with amazing regularity and he plans to depart to Williams next year and astonish the venerable professors of that institution by keeping up the good work he has begun here. Good luck, old man.

EDITH McCANN

"There are some things which are little upon the earth, but they are exceeding wise."

Acadme Association

Katcha Koo 4

"Edie" is the little girl with the tiny voice and "Castle clip." "Forty-nine times louder, Miss McCann." 'Member Edith? She is jolly and full of fun. "Edie" has a leaning toward Pittsfield. We wonder why? Next year will probably find "our little miss" studying to become an efficient old maid schoolmarm, which we think is much against her wishes because didn't she take a Household Hearts course? C'est suffi.

KATHLEEN McCANN

"She is a little maid with big ideas."

Little but—Oh My! Did you ever see a cute little girl with blonde hair 'n blue eyes meandering down the corridor? If so, that was Kathleen. Please don't comment on her height or you'll surely get into trouble. It's strange how different classes affect people. Now during "English" period you'd never know Kathleen was present but during "Household Management" period—. No, I guess I won't say it. But ask one of the members of that famous fifth period class. We hear she's going to Normal. At least she went up there one day to look the place over. We only hope that she won't lose her sweet smile and cheery disposition in instructing the young and unsophisticated and that she will reach her aim in life—to be four feet tall.

ALBERT MORRIER

"A ton of man in thy large bulk is writ."

Here we have "Al" the big man of our class and one of its most popular members. He is a very accomplished young man. At studies he shines, and is one of the few male members of our class who is in the Pro Merito. He has worried his leaders quite a bit lately because of his desire to burn away gasoline on mid-night joy rides. We hope that he will soon get over the foolish habit and learn that he who plays around fire is bound to be burned. Besides being a brilliant student "Al" is an actor of no mean ability as was seen in the class play in which he played his part as Mr. Ralston to perfection. Al plans to go to the University of Pennsylvania next year. We know you'll succeed.

MARY MULCARE

"Better late than never."

Pro Merito

Class note editor of Academe 4

Mary is one of the brilliant girls who earned the right to belong to the Pro Merito. Nevertheless Mary has managed to have a good time. We know that Bohemian life appeals to Mary, as she was one of the first to appear with bobbed hair. Mary has raised the cost of writing paper on account of her constant demand for slips. Everyone is surprised if Mary gets to school before ten in the morning. Mary seems to take a great interest in the town to the west of us. Perhaps her aunt lives there. You never can tell.

MARGARET MURPHY

"It's not only size that counts, but personality."

"Marg" is a regular "gloom-chaser." Her wit and humor keep us laughing all the time. Sometimes when the business department is very much depressed and feels itself terribly abused, Margaret spills one of her witticisms and we forget what we were crabbing about. As humorist of "The Peptonic Times" (the new business newspaper) she is a great success and even our caustic Editor-in-chief (Mr. M—y) admits it. Margaret has accepted a position in a stock-broker's office and is so absorbed in her work that she couldn't afford to take a day off, except, to use her own expression, when she tears it off the calendar.

WEBSTER OTTMAN

"Wend thee away, Venus, I am not disposed."

President 1

Ladies, just cast your glance upon that countenance above and look upon the heartless breaker of a hundred hearts. That boy is known as "Web." From the time he began high school, four long years ago, "Web" has made women his first thought and study his last. He has attended every dance. He has been riding with over half the girls in the school. Some record, Web. Manual training, too, has overworked him while drawing has added to his cares. When the 29th comes you can go from Drury, Web, old man, with a sense of duty well performed.

VENICE PARTENOPE

"Woman is born with the faculty of speech."

Ven is one of the jolliest and best natured girls of the class, always ready for a joke and good time. And talk, my how she can talk! Venice is a loyal supporter of our class and a good cheerer for our teams. Won't Venice look nice in a nurse's uniform? Yes Sir. Ven's going to be a nurse. Where? Massachusetts General. Whether it is the uniform, which appeals to her or the patients, but come to think of it, maybe it is the doc—, but Venice isn't that kind of a girl, Oh no?

EDGAR PETERS

"I believe everything, the more improbable the stronger my faith."

Slow but sure, yet still uncertain where the ladies are mentioned. Edgar is very fond of Miss Radlo's science subjects, especially Physical Geography. Edgar we feel sure has the makings of a first class detective. But if unsuccessful in that we hope to hear of you as a famous agriculturist, Edgar, so don't disappoint us.

ROBERT POLLARD

"His soul is quite weighed down with care, and asks the sweet refreshment of a moment's sleep."

Football 1, 2, 3, 4 Baseball 2, 3, 4 President Athletic Association 4

If you want to find an athlete, a good fellow and a man who doesn't know what it means to give up, just glance above. That's "Dink." He is our premier athlete. He played full back on Drury when he was only a kid. He was a valuable man then and he has been ever since. He has tried his hand at baseball too, and when it comes to a pinch Bob always comes thru. Never serious except when the honor of his school is at stake, Bob goes around with a perpetual grin that seems to attract the fair sex. Bob plans to go to Middlebury next year and all the good advice of the class goes with you Bob, for remember, Middlebury is Co-Ed.

DORIS PRATT

"So young, so fresh, so fair."

Pro Merito

"Prattie" is by far the most popular girl in the business section. Her chief idea is getting on with teachers and we'll say she can do that little thing. There wouldn't be any honor list if Doris' name wasn't on there. Thus, as we always have an honor list, Prattie is always there with her "B's" and "A's".

Doris is the "speed king" in running a typewriter. Yes—she is way ahead of the time. Mr. McCoy would be like a "ship without a sail" if it wasn't for Doris.

Doris just adores English. If it is not English it is the—don't get excited that's a secret but nevertheless she does—Doris is one of the few members of the honor society. We think some lucky business concern will have Doris next year taking notes in shorthand.

1921's best wishes go with you, Prattie.

IRENE RACHDORF

"A ready wit tempered with grace and a good disposition."

Class play 4

Academe Association

Literary editor Academe

Pro Merito

"I wish that Smith's was a co-ed."

What would the class of '21 do without her? Irene has proved her ability as a student during the past four years. She is charming and has a wonderful disposition and more than the usual amount of brains. She is a member of the Pro Merito. She is also the "girl wonder" in mathematics, and succeeds in passing every month, which act, let me tell you, is some job. She can also tell you all about Greek and what the Passive Periphrastic in Latin denotes. She certainly is some candy seller and she also enjoys eating it. Her dramatic ability was proved in the Senior play. She intends going to Smith next year and we all join in hoping she will have a perfectly wonderful time and that she will be as successful in college as she has been in D. H. S.

RUTH REYNOLDS

Academe Association

Katcha Koo

"Man delights not me."

Ruth comes every morning from Blackinton. She is one of our few good looking blondes. Her chief hobby is telling jokes to her classmates and, we swear, they are some jokes. Wherever you see Ruthie you may expect to see Kat. and Olive. They are really inseparable. Once upon a time Ruth was always eating chocolate bars. She wanted the Smith Endowment fund to go over the top.

Ruth has the great distinction of taking part in all our musical entertainments. Ruth is a real artist but her greatest offerings are her pictures of "Cats." As Ruth thinks Normal is a pretty good place to secure her higher education, she has decided to go there next year. She will be gone but not forgotten.

DOROTHY RIDGEWELL

"I don't want to live if I can't live in style."

Dorothy is the girl with the wonderful blond hair. It is the envy of all the girls, especially, since many are regretting the loss of their shorn locks. Dot is a loyal fan at all our games. She is also a very good dancer, in fact few of our dances would be successful without her. Dorothy likes to entertain at her summer camp at Red Mills. She did her share and more too in supplying the cast with costumes and the stage with its furniture for the class play. There's a rumor that Dorothy will soon leave for the west. We wish you the best of luck.

ALBERT ROSCH

"There lies a deal of deviltry beneath his mild exterior."

Basketball 3, 4,

Al is one of our business pupils. But the call of business did not prevent him from playing basket-ball. "Al" is one of those fellows who enjoy a good fight for the fight's sake and who practices his skill on all his school chums. He left us at the close of the basket-ball season and took a position at Payne and Cummings' where he now spends his time practicing his favorite blows on nail kegs. We expect you to be a good hardware man as you were always a hard worker.

HELEN ROWLEY

"Speech is silver, silence is golden."

Helen might look quiet to many but as the song goes "when you get her alone, you'd be surprised." Helen is one of our proficient business pupils. Instead of studying Vergil or Cicero she would much rather have a "Remington" or a "Gregg." Helen loves gymnasium and during her latter years in school she has become some basketball fan. "It wasn't your fault that we made such a showing against our underclassmen, was it Helen?" Helen thinks a great deal of our staff of teachers and she has that rare idea of calling them all "friends." Because the business world seems to offer great advantages to the seekers, Helen has decided to become a thoroughbred business woman. We wish you success, dear friend.

MARGARET RYAN

"Knowledge is power."

Margaret is our ideal of a sweet girl graduate, in fact, she's our ideal anyway (Mr. McGrory's also). She is one of those who are always on the Highest Honors or just escapes it. Nothing short of an earthquake could prevent Margaret from arriving at 7:45 every morning with her lessons perfectly prepared. She is one of the quiet members, and her adviser even declares she is "timid." She is at present juggling deeds and wills in a law office, but her ambition is to be a commercial teacher. Margaret has had some experience substituting for the commercial teachers, and, judging from the hit she made with the pupils, she would do well to take up this profession. Oh, you mountain climber.

RAYMOND RYAN

Thou art an orator, and by thy eloquence, Thou movest all—from out thy presence.

Here we have our greatest orator, debator, and Socialist—Raymond Ryan. Sad it is that Webster passed away before clashing with our friend. Sadder still that Lincoln and Douglas never had a chance to see what talent Drury could produce. But still there is a ray of hope in the thought that in time some one may arise who can give our classmate a worthy battle. As a worthy socialist, Ray manfully upholds his bearded friends in English class and sends forth the cry and appeal of unionism. Don't disappoint us "Ray" old man we depend on you to save our country from distruction and ourselves from a brutal government.

GLADYS ST. DENIS

"Constant cheerfulness is the surest sign of a wise mind."

"Glad" is the "cute" member of the Senior shorthand class. When she is called on during a dull period we awaken from our slumbers and look intelligent for we know she is going to say something interesting. As for clothes, we certainly should like to know her modiste! "Glad" and "Gert" are an inseparable pair and wherever one is, the other is sure to be around. Gladys has not decided what she is going to do next year, but we know that, whatever she takes up, she will be a success because of her pleasing little ways.

JAMES SHAW

"Fair sample of untainted youth."

Business Manager Academe

James Shaw, more often called Jimmie, is another one who comes out of the west to gain knowledge. He attained it, but we confess we don't know how. We don't hear much from Jimmie although he has been with us right from the start. Perhaps he has been too busy pounding his typewriter to attend to much else. Or then again it might have been Elsie (L. C.) Smith who was taking his time. He left school two months before graduation but we know he has a good position and will make the most of it.

GERTRUDE SHERIDAN

"A winning way, a pleasant smile."

Katcha Koo

At the beginning of this year there came among us a maiden with raven locks. Her name was Gertrude. Gert may not have been with us long, but while she has been with us, she has made many friends. Almost unfailingly Gert appears at our dances and believe me she can dance. Ask Wescott if you won't believe me. She has a habit of lingering about the school at late hours of the afternoon. Does she wait for someone? No, fooled again. She's just playing in her "back yard." She is an ardent supporter of our teams and has won the regard of all her classmates by her general sweetness of disposition. We won't forget the work you did on the class song, Gertrude.

ESTHER SPITZER

"The only jewel which will not decay is Knowledge."

Katcha Koo

Esther has the honor of being the youngest in the class besides graduating in three years. One certain teacher thinks Esther is an A No. 1 pupil, as far as home management is concerned. If anyone doubts whether '21 is the best class let them ask Esther about the matter. She had the opportunity to be a member of the exceptional Junior class but she preferred our class. Aren't we proud members of '21? Esther was a "sailor" in Katcha Koo and I'll say she made a decided hit. Next year Drury will be honored by Esther's presence as she intends to take a P. G. course.

ELISEO TADIELLO

*A solemn youth with sober phiz
Who eats his grub and minds his biz.*

“Tady” is another one of those quiet fellows who comes from “Effie’s” domain? In that department he shows his skill in tickling a typewriter and juggling figures. We feel sure that, altho he may never make an orator, he will sometime make an expert accountant. Our best wishes are with you Tady.

MILDRED WALKER

Class Play

Academe Association

*“Unthinking, idle, wild and young,
I laughed, and danced and talked and sung.”*

Here is one of our famous actresses who took the part of the “vamp” to perfection in the class play, “I was an innocent young girl, etc.” Milly is one of our most popular members, and especially among the opposite sex in the lower classes. She believes in giving each social event a large share of her attention. Keene, N. H. holds a charm for Milly (and so does Cheshire Harbor). Why? Oh, and Mildred doesn’t dislike water in the least. Why not long ago she became careless and was carried off by a “Flood.” Mildred intends to take a summer course in the Keene Normal and will be a full fledged school ma’m in the fall. Isn’t she ambitious? Don’t “vamp” the youngsters, Mil.

ISABELLE WATT

"Few words suffice."

"Pleasing personality" as our Office Training books sayth— that's Belle. She never lets the little things bother her, and gets along beautifully with everyone. She is fortunate enough to escape the wrath of our fifth period teacher who diligently tries to teach us that $2+2=4$, by acting as Mr. McCoy's seeretary. She it is who makes cash-book entries and balance sheets to see how many ounces of ice-cream the Cafeteria? can sell for a dime. We know that she will be an expert bookkeeper when she leaves these halls of learning, and perhaps sometime we shall hear that she is a certified aceountant.

CATHERINE WELCH

*"Come and trip it as ye go,
On the light fantastic toe."*

Katcha Koo 4

This is another one of those delightful young ladies who make us think of the "Zeigfield Follies" and themselves think it folly to think. Her name is Kit. She comes down from the Five roads when she wants to and she stays up there when she doesn't. She attends most of our social functions and is very popular with the fellows. Automobiles also have their charm and Blackinton is a delightful spot, don't you think so Kit? Wherever you go and whatever you do, our wishes for your success go with you.

HOWARD WESTCOTT

"My only books were woman's looks and follies all they taught me."

Class President 3, 4

Football 2, 3, 4 (Captain)

Exchange Editor Academe

Note that manly face above. Cast your vision upon those clear cut features. Do you know him? That's "Pod." He has been our class president for two years. He played football for three years and was captain his last year. When it came to bucking the line he was the chief buck, as our class poet would say. The ladies flock around him. Dances claim a lot of his attention, but Greylock also has its attraction to which he is susceptible in the first degree. Howie plans to go to Tufts next year to become a doctor and learn to handle a knife as he handles football. Good luck.

GERALDINE WHELAN

"On with the dance."

Class Play 4

Katcha Koo 4

Gerrie has tried to transplant a little of Greenwich Village to Drury. We know she has succeeded. Ask Gerrie how she likes bobbed hair. She will tell you that she has five minutes longer to sleep in the morning. Among her many accomplishments, Gerrie can sing, dance divinely, act, and surprise us all by occasionally getting on the honor list. Gerrie displayed her ability as an actress in the senior play. Next year Gerrie is thinking of entering Russell Sage.

JANET WILCOX

"Oh this learning! What a thing it is."

Class Play 4

Did someone say, "Silence is golden." Enough said for we all know Janet. She can talk, Lord how she can talk! Does she ever stop? Does that elatter and chatter ever cease? Does that hoarse whisper ever cease its grating on a teacher's nerves? Alas! we cannot tell, we only see her daytimes. But nevertheless Janet is a good sport. She always helps when help is needed. She helped Mr. Costello direct the cast and for that she deserves great credit. Janet plans to go to Smith and our only hope is that she strikes the college and not the "Institution."

CAST OF SENIOR PLAY

"Nothing But The Truth."

ON May fifteenth, the class of 1921 presented as its annual dramatic production "Nothing but the Truth" a three act comedy by James Montgomery, which was recently released to amateurs after a long professional run in New York.

Altho the weather was not so pleasant as could be desired, nevertheless by eight o'clock the house was crowded with an enthusiastic audience.

Before the performance and between the acts, while the school orchestra played, the Senior Girls conducted a candy sale.

The story of the play is most unusual. The scene opens in the broker's office of E. M. Ralston, where the veteran broker shows his young men assistants how to sell stock. The methods which he uses disturbs a partner, Bob Bennett, who remonstrates with Mr. Ralston. Preceding the sale, Bob's sweetheart, Gwen Ralston, entrusts him with $10,000 of charity money, bidding him invest it, so that she can raise the twenty thousand, which her father has promised to double, before she gives it back to the Bishop. This is the cause of all the trouble for in his plan to double it, Bob gets into all kinds of trouble. He tells the Senior partner, Mr. Ralston, that one can always tell the truth and it is never necessary to tell that which is untrue. Mr. Ralston denies this and a bet is made that if Bob will tell the absolute unvarnished truth for a period of 24 hours he will receive $10,000. One of the conditions of the bet is that no one of the parties concerned can tell anyone of the bet. The bet is shared by Dick Donnelly and Clarence Van Dusen.

In his determination to tell the truth, Bob experiences all sorts of difficulties which are in no way softened by his friends on the opposing side of the bet, who do all that they can to aggravate the situations. The day seems as if it would never end, but with so much at stake Bob feels that he cannot give up and even when it appears that separation of Mr. and Mrs. Ralston may ensue and there is liable to be trouble between his lady love and himself, Bob sticks to his course. He wins, but five minutes after the appointed hour he takes back practically everything that he has said and peace again reigns in every quarter.

Much credit is due to the careful direction and tireless energy of Mr. Harold L. Costello, who trained the cast.

The work of all those who took part was of a high order and received many favorable comments. It resulted in making "Nothing but the Truth" a pronounced success and reflected great honor upon the Senior Class.

BANQUET.

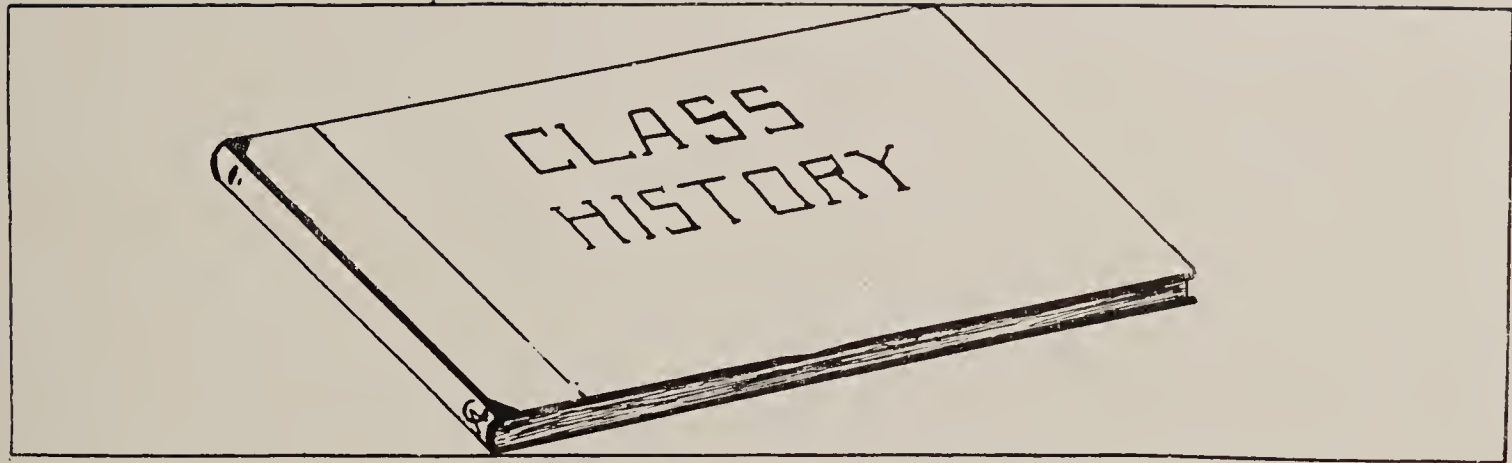

ON the evening of June 28, 1921, in the social room the annual class banquet was held. The fifty-six members of the class were present together with many of the faculty and their wives. The banquet was well served, Mrs. Lash erbeing in charge. Howard Westcott, president of the class, proved a capable toastmaster, and the talks which followed the meal were very enjoyable. At the conclusion of the toasts everyone adjourned to the gymnasium where dancing was enjoyed until eleven o'clock.

HERE we are at last, and my, how time flies! Only four years ago, that 139 strong, we crept shakily up the white walks, and into the beautiful new building for a different purpose than ever before. Those few months from that beautiful September morning in the year 1917, until June 29, 1921, passed faster than usual. How different our class is today from what it was then. Now we are all grown up (except a few who will never grow up anyway) and looking forward to a bigger future than we ever dreamed could exist.

How sad we are to leave those wonderful teachers who have been our best friends for four years (whether we realized it or not) and at whom we stole shy glances from timid and scared eyes.

Well do we remember our first year in Drury. Ours was the class, it seemed, which could never find its way from room to room between classes. How many times did we go to the office with only this excuse, "I lost my way" and, being pitied, were given a slip.

We are sorry to say that many of our large class dropped out and in four years our numbers have decreased from 84 to 58, tho some of those are of the class of 1920.

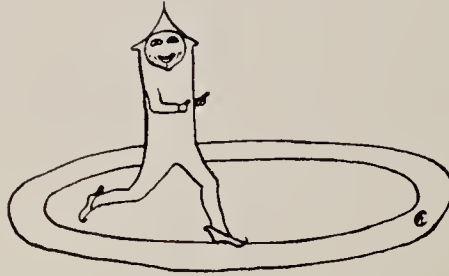

How well did we spend our four years at Drury. We have several exceedingly smart pupils as our Pro Merito Society shows, and the rest are all good students.

Socially, we excel. Our Junior Prom was a great success, and also every other social event we have attempted. Athletically we are fair. We have contributed to all the teams, and would have done more, had the coach liked to put Seniors on the teams, but it seems that he was building for the future.

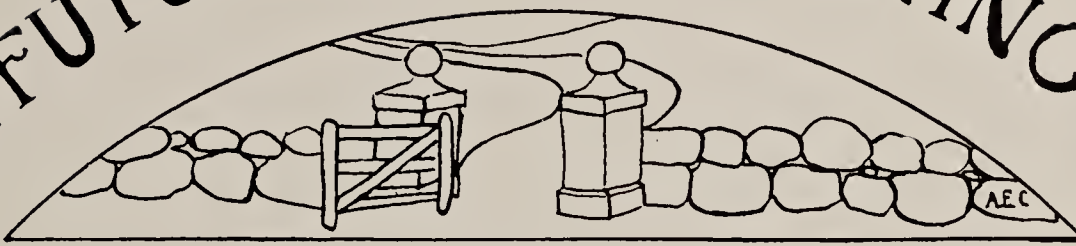

In charity work we have not had the chances that some of the others have had, but we are going to do as much as we possibly can with the resources that are available.

As a climax to our success in social ventures we produced "Nothing but the Truth," a play which seemed to please all those who saw it.

This seems to end the rather short but interesting history of the class of 1921.

"THE FUTURE'S BROADENING WAY"

"OUIJA, I crave news of the class of 1921. Please tell what changes ten years have brought" Thus I spoke to my old faithful friend Ouija one day in June 1931.

With little urging the nimble table glided quickly and easily, giving me all the information about my classmates that I desired.

Edwin Brainard has answered the call of the wild and is a ranger police in Texas where he is trying to round up the notorious desperado Marcel Euvrard, wanted for smuggling lemon squeeze over the Mexican border.

Anne Curtis is an artist noted for the originality of her billboard posters.

John Higley is demonstrating Armstrong Heaters in the Fiji Isles where he met Ruth Isbell on a concert tour with Catherine Welch who accompanies her songs on the ukelele.

Levitte is dusting pennies in the National Bank of Clarksburg of which Albert Rosch is president.

M. Jaffe is in Egypt; at present he is trying to find out how many handfuls of darkness it takes to turn twilight into midnight.

Francis Grenier is the head of the factory where "Slikin Hair Shine" is manufactured.

Katherine Brainard and Christine Dalton are giving a series of lectures at the various high schools on "Why Bobbed Hair Doesn't Take."

Mildred Walker is happy in a little love-nest that has rambling roses 'n everything.

Olive Iles and Ruth Reynolds, police women in New York, are subduing the wave of immorality in that wicked city.

Bob Pollard is an energetic labor agitator. He gives his untiring effort to the support of the "All Pay, No Work" movement.

Kathleen McCann has made her fortune by inventing an indestructible hair-net.

Jimmie Shaw is a salesman for the Kupphiemer Clothing Co.

Dorothy Ridgewell has succeeded in diving from Phoenix Bridge and swimming the entire width of the Hoosac River.

Janet Wilcox is a successful editor for the Herald. Her specialty is digging out family skeletons.

Bob Costine, a noted divorce lawyer, is working the Ryan-Westcott case. Margaret claims that since Howard has cleared up the mystery of the fourth dimension and proved completely his method of trisecting an arc, his head is a bit turned and home life does not appeal to him. Lawyer Costine finds this case exceedingly interesting. He always did like a snappy element.

R. Ryan, well known "soap-box" evangelist, is called the second Billy Sunday on account of his stimulating and vigorous preaching. This was unexpected. We all thought Raymond would turn to politics.

Mary Mulcare and Margie Kennedy are running a beauty parlor in Williamstown. They guarantee to restore faded beauty.

A. Morrier has followed his father's profession as a mender of soles. It is rumored that Albert took up this after being terribly disappointed in love. The girl's name is not mentioned, by special request of Albert.

"Wink" Hurlburt has signed a contract to keep the elephants well shined and manicured in the Zoölogical gardens of New York.

Margaret Murphy and Helen Geddes collect and write jokes for the "Spice of Life" section of the Literary Digest.

Dan Clare is keeping I. Tadiello and I. Gabriner, postmen, busy, distributing free Latin trots, which he has written for the worthy scholars of Drury.

Helen Rowley is the librarian at the North Adams Library. She will, upon request, give concise yet complete reviews of any book on the Drury lists so that Drury pupils need no longer be bored to death reading for twenty credits.

Mlle. Margaret Lowrie has established a very exclusive Women's shop for the elite of North Adams.

Gert Sheridan and Gert Mahoney go to Paris twice a year to select gowns for the Mles. They have such excellent taste and style that several Fifth Avenue shops have offered them positions but they are loyal to Margaret.

Gerrie Whelan is now starring on Broadway in the latest musical comedy, "The Merry Widow." Gerrie is certainly a success.

Sadie Lenhoff is an elocutionist. She hires Esther Spitzer to bring the ice water to her on the stage when the first applause breaks forth.

Venice Partenope is a stenographer in the A Boy Gum Factory. The employees get their gum supply free.

Doris Pratt holds a position formerly held by Mildred Champagne of the Boston Post Staff. Her answers to vital questions are always encouraging to love-lorn lassies.

Elvira Darling, Gert Boland and Gladys St. Denis are starring at the Empire as the three witches in "Macbeth."

Ottman is enjoying a seat among the learned for answering correctly all the questions Edison could think of.

Edgar Peters, a traffic cop, has overtaken on his motorcycle and arrested more speeders than any other man on the force.

Orean Hoover has given a set of new song books to Drury. Friday singing is no longer dull or tiring for the songs from Orean's pen are full of pep and rhythm.

Edith McCann, Louise LaMar, and Isabel Watt have found their Prince Charmings and are all very happy.

Stafford Carson is posing for the Animated Film Corporation as "Desperate Ambrose" Charlie Chaplin and Harold Lloyd, acknowledging defeat have given way to the better man.

Dorothy Mahoney has recently received the Grand Prize from the President of France himself for being able to speak French more fluently and rapidly than any other foreigner.

Florence Mack, president of the Titian Blonde Society, is the best and most popular hostess in North Adams.

Mary Cook is in Japan, trying to revolutionize the funeral and marriage customs. The Japanese widows are deeply indebted to her, for through her efforts, widows in Japan are as happy creatures as are in the United States.

Harry Marshall, a world famous spiritualist, has a hermitage on the Mohawk Trail where he holds impressive seances with the spirits.

I was satisfied. Never before did I realize what a treasure my Ouija really was. The class of 1921 was successful beyond all hopes. The faculty had said ten years before that it would be.

Irene Rachdorf '21

Prophecy on Prophet

“5008, 5009, 5010, 5011”,—was the interesting monologue which I interrupted with my boresome question,

“Pardon me, sir, but could you tell me the way to the nearest garage?”

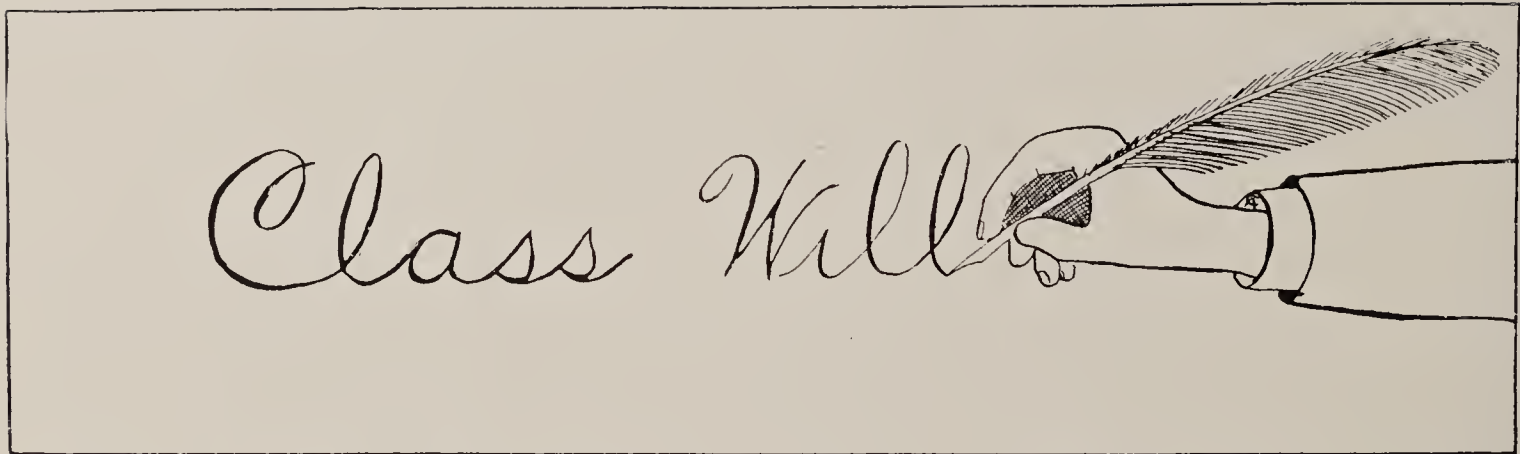

The hand which held the huge magnifying glass was immediately hidden in the depths of the deep pocket of the blue overalls. It soon came forth again bearing a small red note-book on the pages of which I noticed long columns of figures. The last number this hand put down was 5011. The dusty hand then went to the dilapidated hat which covered the hair entirely, and pushed it back. To my great surprise, I saw, instead of a short cropped head, a mass of light brown locks.

“Huh! did you speak to me? Oh yes, 5011. I’ll interview you in the morning. I am busily engaged just now in what I hope to be a startling discovery in science.

Thinking that by questioning her on her pet subject, I could possibly gain some intelligent information about this highly confusing place where my car had chosen to stall itself, I asked her what the startling discovery was to be.

“Can it be possible that you do not know who I am? My latest donation to the scientific world was how many hops a grass-hopper takes before his morning meal. Just now, I am exceedingly taxed with counting the grains of sand in an ant-hill large enough to accommodate nineteen ants. I have thus far counted 5011 as you see. I expect there are twenty or twenty-five thousand grains but I shall be greatly repaid for my work when I see the good the results will do for the world. I am the Mrs. Irene Rachdorf Dunham.

BE IT REMEMBERED, That we, being of questionably sane mind, and knowing that we are soon to leave these halls of learning by way of the Class of 1921, and wishing to distribute our virtues and vices equally, do hereby bequeath and devise to the following:

1. To our parents who made it possible for us to come to Drury, we bequeath our future conquests.
2. To Doctor Gadsby, whom we love and respect, and to whom we owe our career as Drury students, we leave our sincere thanks for his kindness.
3. To our senior class adviser, Miss Dora A. Radlo, we assign our undying gratitude.
4. To all our teachers we will our appreciation for our future successes and for our past narrow escapes from failure.
5. To our class officers we devise a petition for a Carnegie medal for braving the dangers of miserable death as a possible result of riots at class meetings.
6. To the Class of 1922 we bequeath:
The dignity, personality, ingenuity, loquaciousness, high standing, social esteem, style, and beauty of our class.

The privilege of occupying the front rows in the auditorium where absence can be easily detected and where Doctor's vigilant eye will ever be upon you.

The joy of singing "Who is Sylvia" at 12:14 on Fridays.

The right to hold a Senior Prom to increase or decrease your class funds.

The use of Study C as an opening room in which failure to report will receive just punishment. This room may also be used for that semi-annual torture known as "exams."

The authority and capability of our class officers and class book officials which we challenge you to supercede.

The right to have Children's Day when all girls will wear their hair in a braid.

The privilege of advertising "Hobo" day and the enjoyment of the results.

7. To the Class of 1923 we devise:

The right to move as near as possible to Study C from Study B.

The necessity of moving quickly from the vicinity of the south door to escape hasty punishment.

The use of the gymnasium for the Junior Prom.

Our envy of your shortened school day.

8. To the Class of 1924 we will:

The right to go quickly and quietly to class.

The good judgment of taking advice once in a while.

The privilege of adding several inches to your height.

The use of some contracting substance to lessen the amazement in your round-as-a-saucer eyes.

The privilege of being the cause of many jokes.

Our cordial thanks that you are such.

9. To all our underclassmen and future students of Drury we leave the fidelity of the CLASS OF 1921.

In case of any dispute in regard to bequests BE IT KNOWN that all students share equally in the dust raised by flying feet as the 12:15 gong sounds.

If, by the thirty-first day of June in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and twenty-one these above written privileges have not been accepted, this will is then to be declared null and void.

Drury, we're singing
Of years with thee;
We'll ne'er forget you
When we're on life's sea
You've been our comrade
And guiding light;
Your influence will always lead us
To the right.

Drury, O help us
In toil and strife
To follow out thy teachings
Thru our life.
To you with loyal hearts
Our voices raise;
Now comes the time to part, O
Hear our praise.

Far in the distant years,
Where'er we be,
Sweet mem'ries will bring back
Our love for thee.
Farewell to thee, dear school,
Our duties o'er;
Our thoughts will be of thee
Forever more.

BASKETBALL TEAM

ALL Hail the teams of 1921!

Altho we have not turned out a championship team this year, we have had three very successful seasons. We all realize that athletics are not only for the victorious, but also for the losers, not the poor losers but the cheerful ones. We have developed more sportsmanlike spirits than stars, and this in the end is the real value received from athletics. Due to the continuous efforts of our new coach, Mr. Sullivan, we have had three good teams, one in each, foot-ball, basketball, and baseball. Most of Drury's athletes are lower classmen this year, so we can surely expect the next two or three years to be very successful ones, even more so than this year. The class of 1921 wishes those whom she is leaving behind her, all the success that can come from hard and faithful work with good clean playing always accompanying it.

H. Westcott,

Class of 1921

The Drury Gossip.

Only edition published since 1843.

POLICY

The editors of the Drury Gossip wish to announce to the students of Drury High School that this publication is issued without the consent of the student body or the faculty and that it is our firm determination to knock and discuss anyone we please in any way we desire.

NOTICES

During the summer I am prepared to give a five weeks' course in eleven lessons on "How to become a Detective. After one lesson I guarantee that anyone will be able to solve the grass plot. Reasonable prices! Don't miss this opportunity to learn from an expert.

E. Peters

I am now offering a course in cigarette rolling open to the members of both sexes. I guarantee to teach a man in two weeks, a woman in two days. Don't miss this offer.

Ed. Brainard

At any time after six P. M. I would desire to meet any young lady who wishes to become proficient in the art of, "Making yourself look like you'd like to but don't." As a proof of the numbers that profit by my lessons the firm of "Payne and Cummings" has announced that it has been forced to increase its paint and varnish department.

Only five lessons needed and you can become as proficient as I am.

C. Dalton.

My book on "How to raise Poker from a game to a Science" explains in detail when and how to raise, how to bid, when to pass, blow or drop. It explains how to win a big pot on a pair of deuces. All this is explained and made clear by illustrations from the authors personal experiences in this little pocket volume which can be obtained from the office or from Messrs. Hogan, McGrory, and Moran for the modest sum of two bits.

R. Pollard

O F L O C A L I N T E R E S T

Misses Mulcare, Kennedy, and Dalton report that there is good fishing around Williamstown. They failed to mention the bait they employed.

A meeting of the Poker Club was held last night in the office. Mr. McCoy presided.

It has come to the notice of the editors of the Drury Gossip that John Higley has met Miss Brainard in the south east corner of the school building at 1.45 sharp for 89 days in succession. The interest of the school is aroused and many bets are being laid as to whether or not John will reach the century mark without a break.

WANTED

One of this description, young—but not too young—brunette preferred to blonde—must have own teeth and hair—must be able to dance—must not object to late hours or long auto rides.

R. Costine

Editors of the Gossip: A says Raymond Ryan formed the first labor union. B says he drew up the law that states that Bolsheviks shall neither cut their hair, wash, or shave.

Which is right?

N E W S I T E M S

That charming little book written by Mr. Marcel Euvrard on, "How to make love or personal reminiscences of an expert" is reported as having a very large sale.

Doctor Gadsby and Messrs. Hogan, McGrory, and Oliver are spending the week end at Camp Casino. We hope they have a fine dry week.

Miss Dorothy Mahoney recently won first prize in the quick speaking contest conducted by the English department and the Remington Rapid fire machine gun works.

A tid bit of spicy scandal was seized upon by our local gossip when Miss Geraldine Whelan was seen walking down Main street at nine o'clock with a young man. He is described as being "a tall slender blonde."
